Bird Academy Offers Specialised Training to Travel Industry Aspirants

The travel and tourism industry is one of the fastest growing industries of our country today. The growth rate has been exponential, the revenue generation and employment generation has quite literally crossed all expectations and barriers. Today, tourism industry accounts for more than 8 percent of global employment and is expected to rise to 10.2 percent in the next 10 years. Unless and until the industry does not have skilled manpower, who can offer seamless service to consumer, one will never be able to reach professional heights.

With the boom in the travel and tourism industry in the past few years and the industry growing manifolds, there is a need to develop high quality professionals to match up this explosion. A mere graduation or basic industry knowledge is not adequate to counter this demand; therefore a detailed and in-depth understanding of the industry is required through professional courses and vigorous training. Bird Academy, educational arm of the Bird Group, recognised this void and with a vision to create a pool of skilled personnel for aviation and travel industry. The Academy has completely revamped the way professional courses have been conducted in the past, be it in content, methodology of teaching or infrastructure by introducing versatile programmes that not only provide technical education, but also promote intercultural interactions.

Offering a-la-carte courses, both full time and part time for new entrants and professionals, Bird Academy provides comprehensive education in the field of Aviation, Travel and Tourism, Information Technology and Hospitality Management involving Soft Skill Training, IATA Consultant and Foundation Course, Airport Handling and IATA Cargo Courses, Computerised Reservation System (CRS), Automated Ticketing, GDS Fares and Ticketing and Aviation Law and Dangerous Goods Regulation courses. This gives them a distinct advantage of integrated knowledge and subsequent experience towards cost effective and successful planning, marketing and administrative sections in the times to come.

Today, Bird Academy is the only diversified largest IATA recognised Authorized Training Centre (ATC) in India. Directorate General of Civil Aviation's (DGCA) approval to offer dangerous goods training to its students adds another feather to Bird Academy's hat. They have also joined hands with the accredited Delhi University, where courses in Travel and Tourism, CRS and Airfares and Ticketing are offered to students of all the colleges affiliated with the university. More than 50 universities in India use their software to train students about CRS. Since their advent, Bird Academy has nurtured 50,000 raw talents into trained professionals, who have been placed across various aviation and service industry sectors worldwide. As a social responsibility initiative, they give preferences to the underprivileged by waiving their fees and employing them within various verticals of Bird Group.

With training centres in major metropolitan cities of India like Delhi, Mumbai, Chandigarh, Kolkata and Bangalore, Bird Academy is now looking to expand its horizon beyond the borders of the Indian subcontinent. They will also be launching their e-learning programme shortly to reach out to a vast population of tourism industry aspirants across the globe.

Will foreign carrier's be allowed a stake in Indian airlines ?

According to a recent press release there is an opportunity that global players may be allowed to pick up a stake in the local airlines.

The government has, so far, been unable to come up with a clear cut policy, despite a broad consensus in the industry on the issue. The current policy allows foreign direct investment of up to 49 percent in Indian airline firms, but bars foreign carriers from buying stake. With the most suitable foreign investors being kept out, no local airline has managed to rope in strategic partners.

The big three of Indian skies — Air India, Jet and Kingfisher is facing mounting debt which they were finding hard to repay despite a pick-up in passenger numbers and revenues.

Indian carriers such as Vijay Mallya's Kingfisher and Wadia family-owned Go Air are keen to rope in foreign airlines as strategic partners while foreign carriers such as Richard Branson's Virgin Atlantic, Singapore Airlines, Lufthansa and Emirates have evinced interest in picking up stake in local airlines.

International aviation body IATA had said last week that India's insular approach to FDI in aviation is going to hurt the sector, which needs an investment of $140 billion in the next 20 years. The Reserve Bank of India had recently allowed restructuring of loans to the debt-ridden airlines.

International aviation body IATA had said last week that India's insular approach to FDI in aviation is going to hurt the sector, which needs an investment of $140 billion in the next 20 years.

Industry sources said that a foreign carrier, with deep pockets, could play havoc with the domestic market by artificially lowering the price of air travel and cut down competition.

Foreign Banks in India

According to the existing norms of 'Roadmap for Presence of Foreign Banks in India 2005'; foreign banks were allowed to establish presence in India through wholly owned subsidiary (WOS) or a branch. During the initial phase from March 2005 to March 2009 the banks were operating under more stringent guidelines of opening of 12 branches in a year guided by WTO commitment. These were proposed to be relaxed from April 2009 onwards where the treatment would be on par with domestic banks; furthermore foreign banks would also be allowed to dilute stake in Wholly Owned Subsidiary (WOS) and undertake Merger and Acquisitions. RBI is now proposing to release fresh guidelines on the subject. The global financial crisis was also a major factor in limiting the interest of foreign banks entering India. As of March 2010, foreign banks held approximately 4.6 percent of banking assets in India.

The Indian banking sector emerged relatively unscathed from the crisis and has shown robust growth with the economic recovery in latter half of FY10. It however requires large capital to sustain the targeted double digit economic growth. The penetration of banking services is a concern with approximately less than 50 percent of the population covered by formal banking channels. With the primary objective of increasing inclusion the government announced granting of new banking licenses. Subsequently the Reserve Bank of India released a discussion paper on the guidelines for granting new banking licenses to private sector players. The regulator has laid out five basic criteria for discussion namely: Minimum capital requirements; Caps on promoter and other shareholders; Foreign shareholding; Eligible promoters; and, Business plan. There is perhaps now a larger room for foreign banks to approach the market if these discussions are embodied in the new policy.

One of the options explored is allowing foreign shareholding while proposing that it be capped at a suitable level below 50 percent and locked at the level for 10 years. This is in contrast to the existing regulations where the aggregate foreign investment (FDI, FII and NRI) from all sources cannot exceed 74 percent of paid-up capital of the bank. The proposal would enable foreign capital to participate in the domestic banking; however the caps and locking would also constrain the flow. Foreign participation will however be beneficial in bringing in technical collaboration.

The Indian banking sector is expected to maintain a healthy growth rate in the future and will require huge amounts of capital to fund the growth. Foreign capital is one of the sources of investment however given the constraints it is unlikely that large amounts of FDI will flow into the sector.

The Bold and the Fearless Legend is Back

Diageo, the world's leading premium drinks business, re-launched the legendary VAT 69 bottle. The iconic dark green sherry shaped bottle, seen so often in the yesteryear Bollywood films, is a tribute to its creator William Sanderson.

Until five decades ago, this high quality Scotch whisky used to be packaged in a dark green bottle, tamper-proofed by a red ribbon attached to the bottle cork and secured in place by a red wax seal depicting the emblem of the Sanderson family, the Talbot Hound. The updated packaging design reflects the iconic bottle, with a firm footing in the 21st century. By retaining the heritage cues, the new bottle honours the brand's historic past while the featured trademark rectangular black label, with its white, stencilled type, boldly shouts 'VAT 69' with burnished gold embellishments.

Stylish, contemporary and of fine craftsmanship, the new bottle is truly worthy of guarding this precious Scotch whisky within - just as envisioned by William Sanderson.

Distilled from the finest malt and grain whiskies and aged using specific casks, VAT 69 is celebrated world over for its generous, light and well balanced flavour generating a robust mouth feel.

One of the ten best-selling Scotch Whiskies internationally, its popularity has spread to over 164 countries and nearly a million cases are sold worldwide each year.

VAT 69 is available across India and is priced at Rs. 1100/- in Mumbai.

VAT 69 encourages you to drink responsibly

News From The EU Delegation

September has seen some changes at the EU Delegation. Peter Young has taken over from Carlos as the Head of the Trade and Economic Affairs Section, while Balazs Gargya has assumed responsibility for trade in goods. They join Edouard Bourcieu and Renita Bhaskar, who have been in the trade team for over a year now. Edouard's main responsibilities are for services and investment, while Renita's are for agriculture, fisheries and SPS issues. Together with our locally-recruited staff, the team is now complete and ready to push forward the wider EU-India trade and investment relationship.

The autumn promises to be busy. The ongoing – tenth - round of FTA negotiations will build on the steady progress we have seen in earlier rounds. We then expect negotiations to intensify during the run-up to the EU-India Summit in mid-December, the objective of negotiators on both sides being to resolve as many issues as possible and use the Summit as an opportunity to give a final push towards conclusion in 2011. The negotiations will not be easy – both sides may need to move on issues that are sensitive for them – but this is only to be expected if we want to achieve an ambitious and comprehensive agreement that will provide economic and welfare gains and new market access opportunities on both sides.

The FTA has the potential to make a step change for EU businesses and investors exporting to and operating in India. EU companies possess the skills, technology and export capabilities to bring to India the goods, services and investments it needs to fulfil its economic potential. The EU Delegation will continue to support EU companies in addressing their difficulties; but we will need to know what barriers businesses face if we are to factor them effectively into our priorities. The Delegation will continue to look to EBG to play an active role, in developing a strong and representative EU business community in India, and the EBG Position Paper of September 2010 could be developed as a focal point and operational tool for setting out needs and concerns across a still wider range of sectors.

Bangalore Chapter Survey Report

A survey is being undertaken by the European Business Group in Karnataka in order to gain a more thorough understanding of the status quo of EU businesses in the state and to voice their view on the various improvements that could be brought out in the business environment in the state in order to make it more conducive for furthering business ties between Europe and Karnataka.

EBG Bangalore chapter, under the Initiative of Mr. Info Hoffmaier, has done a survey among companies of European origin located within the state of Karnataka. This is being done in order to gain a deeper insight on various parameters on which European companies find Karnataka as an attractive investment destination and in which areas do they see scope for improvement. The parameters include primary resources such as energy supply, the transportation network and connectivity, efficiency of the Government of Karnataka in tackling problems, the education system, and matters related to the infrastructure provided by the state such as water supply, waste management, access to manpower, labour relations and law.

The survey is also being conducted in order to get a consolidated understanding, both qualitatively and quantitatively, about European Union business activities in the state and to share with the Government of Karnataka the possible improvements that could be brought forth. Cutting across diverse industrial sectors such as electricity, coal, oil and gas, automotive, information and communication technology (ICT), airlines, security among others, the survey would help us garner multifaceted and cross-sectoral views from different industries.

The EBG had conducted a pilot survey with a select few companies. In order to increase the number of respondents so that the survey is more representative, the Ernst & Young Pvt. Ltd. is collaborating on this project with the EBG and thus bringing in their professional expertise to develop a good quality report. The final report would then be launched in Bangalore in the third week of October 2010 in the presence of senior Karnataka Government representatives and the Diplomatic community in Bangalore.
